THE FACEBOOK PAGE
NORMAL BIRTH FOR LONE NUTS

SEEKING WAYS TO GROW….

So why the crazy name?

It was all about starting a movement…..

[redacted]

We wanted to join the conversation…

Midwife Thinking

mothers, birth, babies and midwifery

Home About Videos

Guest post: when birth is trauma

Posted on May 13, 2011 by midwifethinking

This is a guest post by Elizabeth Ford (website) who is based in the UK so is writing from a UK perspective. Elizabeth explored birth trauma for her PhD and generously agreed to write a post for MidwifeThinking. There are lots of references for students and/or those who like to access original sources of information.

infomidwife

with woman

"recognise that for things to change, you have to be the driver of change"

Wednesday, June 29, 2011

The government is paying us lip service:

There are three burning issues for me currently: Mandatory reporting, women's choice to birth where and how they want and 'continuity of midwifery care'; each deserves a separate blog.

I have refrained from blogging recently because things have been politically difficult and I have been trying to keep a low profile, but it hasn't worked, so I might as well just

Welcome Tayla Jane (Grandie no 8 Lady Tayla)

DOB 22/4/2011: SVB: 4hr labour: Good Friday Baby

Infomidwife blog award: in the top 10 Pregnancy and Childbirth blogs.

Top Pregnancy and Childbirth Blog
Medical Billing and Coding Training

Welcome to infomidwife's narrations....

This is a general information blog about life, midwifery, education, midwifery care, midwives, antenatal,

Follow Share Report Abuse Next Blog»

Thinkbirth

Exploring birth, science & midwifery

PAGES

- Home
- About
- Contact
- My Philosophy
- Horizontal Violence in the Workplace

SATURDAY, JUNE 18, 2011

"All women have the right to dignified health care."

I'm posting this email in its entirety. There is nothing that I can add to the information in this heartfelt request. The title of the post says it all. I've donated and I hope you do too. Thank goodness for women who care like Adina and midwives like Hannah. What a blessing to the world they are!!

Hello Carolyn,

I read your natural birth blog, and really appreciate what you stand for. I

WHY SOCIAL MEDIA?

83% WOMEN GO ONLINE TO LOOK FOR HEALTH INFORMATION…

Membership to current online social networks (such as Facebook, Twitter or Instagram) continues to increase at an exponential rate (Cheung et al 2011).

On average, social networking accounts for one of every six minutes that people spend online (ComScore 2011).

Twitter has 645,750,000 registered users, with 135,000 new users every day, whilst Facebook's total number of active monthly users is 1310,000,000 (Statistics Brain 2014).

This rise in online communities has enabled a virtual shrinking of the globe through the increased opportunity to receive or reach an international audience, from your mobile, in the palm of your hand.

The Facebook page Normal Birth for Lone Nuts was born in October 2014.

This page has been set up by Rachel and Natalie to promote positivity around normal, physiological birth! Please join us and share positivity.

Use social media to share evidence-based, quality information with all women

1024 page likes

330 average engagement with page each week

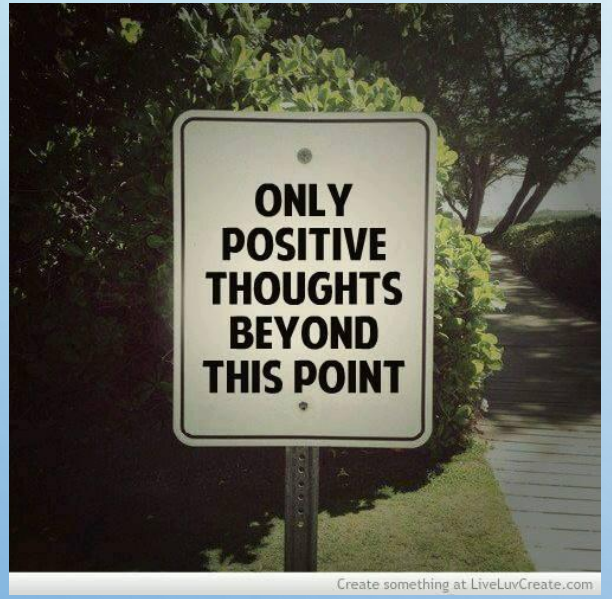
4000 average reach of posts each week

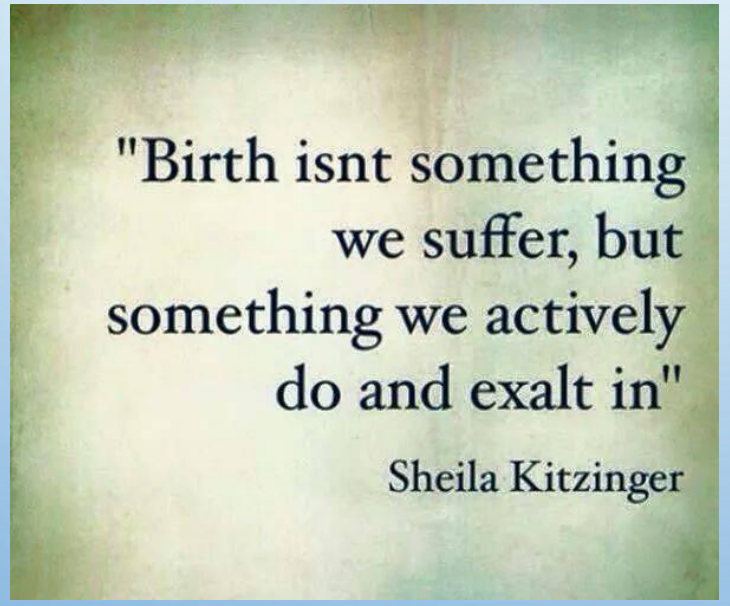
Certain research posted has reached 18000 people

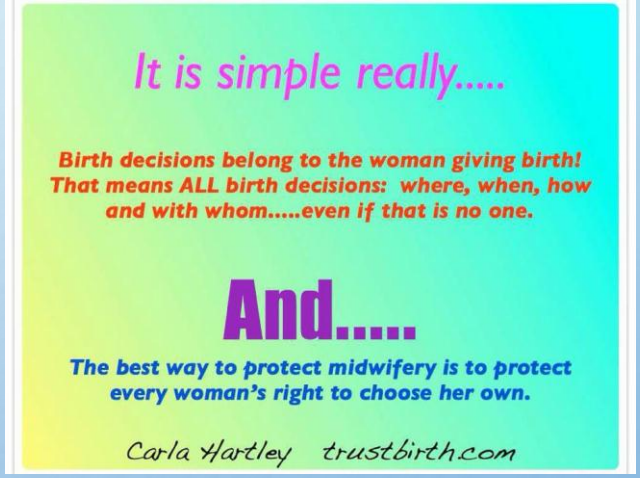
America
Ireland
New Zealand
Norway
Italy
Greece
Philippines
Malaysia
Lithuania

And many more….

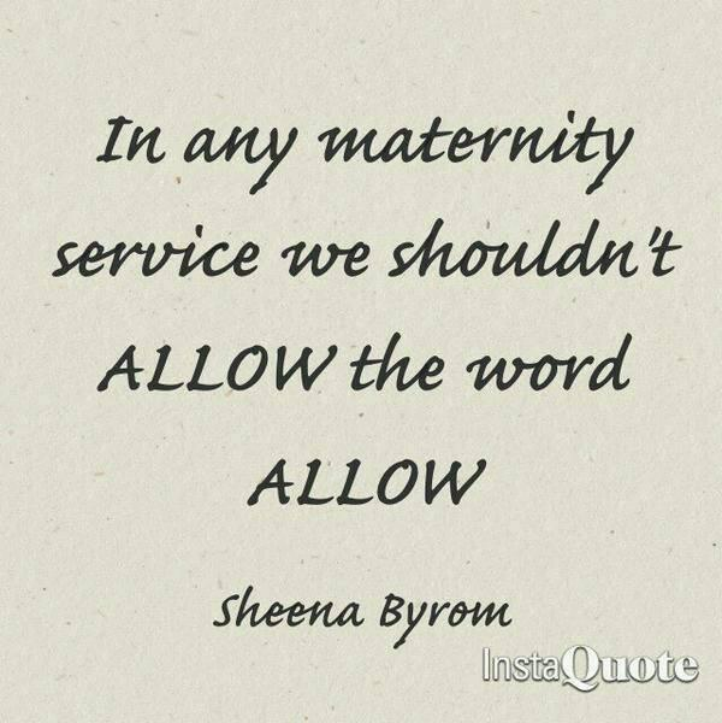
Positivity fills our page….

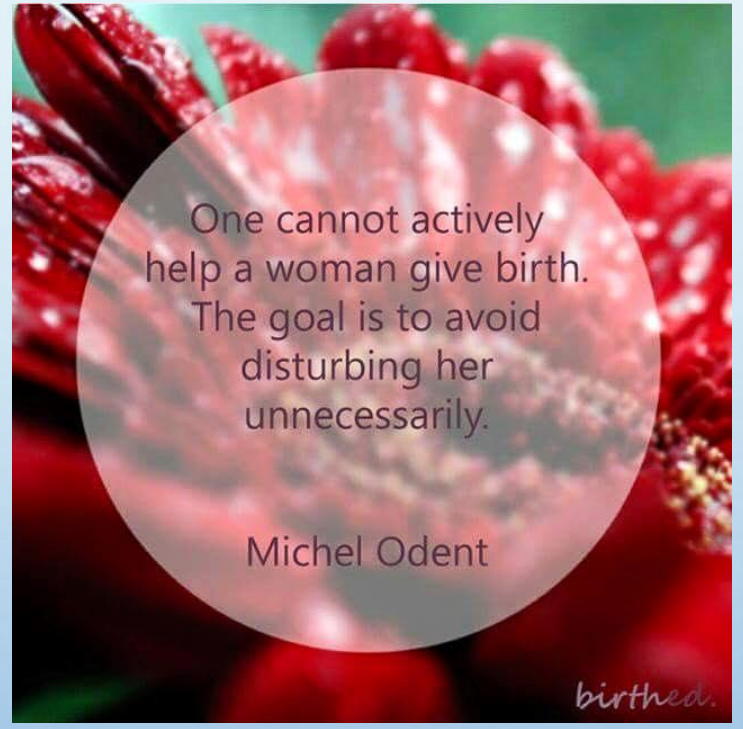


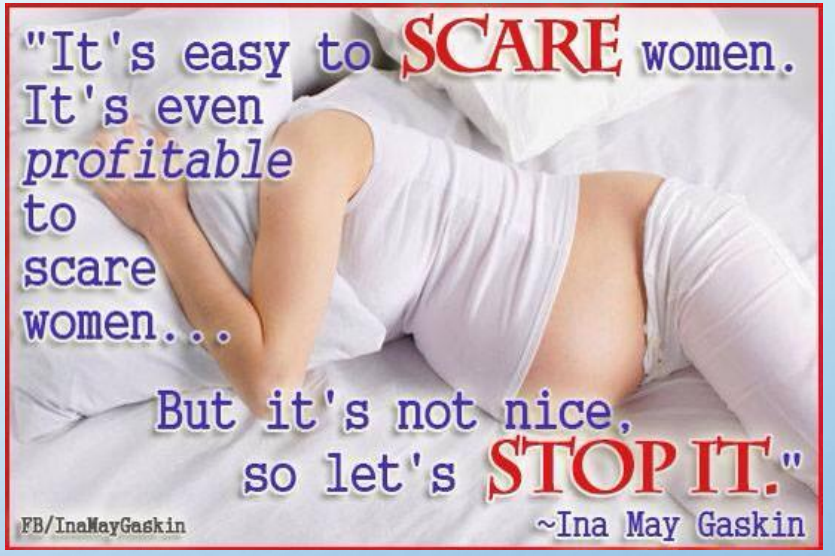


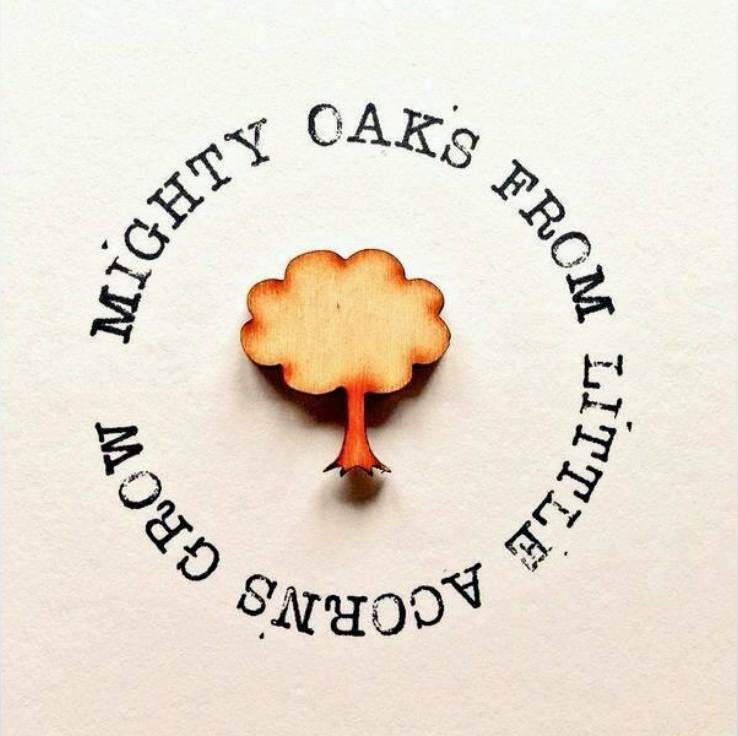


CONNECT WITH MIDWIVES







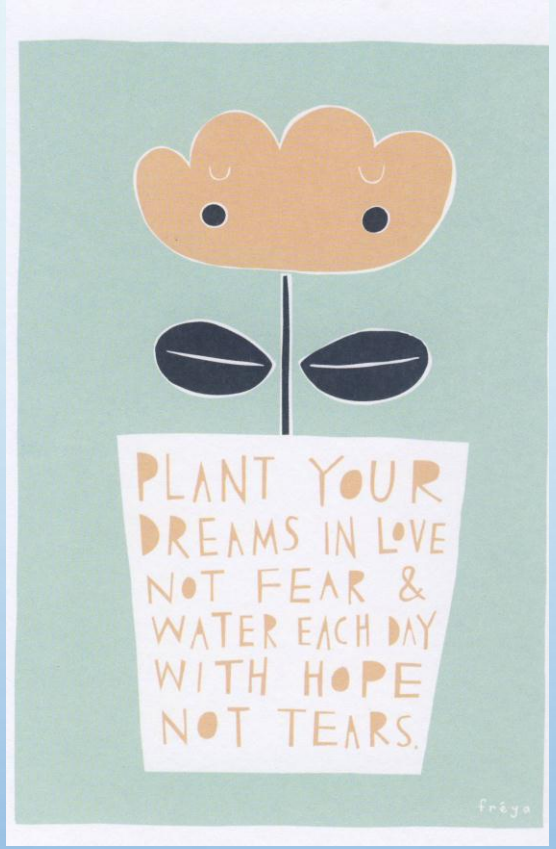


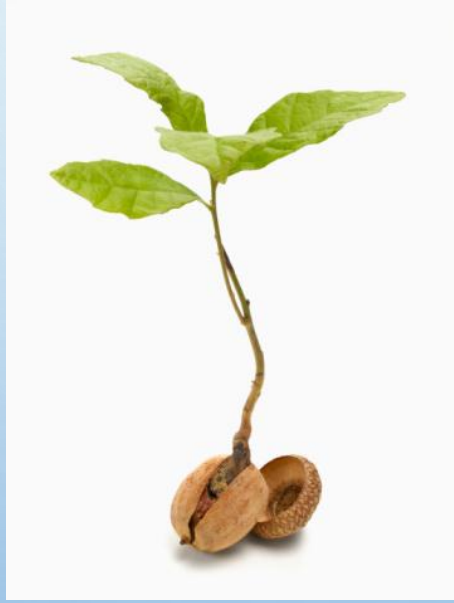
THE RECIPE TO GROW..

Still growing…

THANK YOU FOR LISTENING

OUR FINAL THOUGHT..



ANY QUESTIONS?


PLEASE BE GENTLE WITH US!!