VET developments in Europe: International interest?

Tom Leney
Visiting fellow, London Institute of Education
Senior Policy Analyst, DTI Denmark

TomLeney@btinternet.com

Two questions

The VET developments at the European level concern evidence, policy, practice

- Are the themes lively and relevant internationally, in other countries?
- Are the processes we have engaged in of interest?

To 2010: Quality, access, mobility
Now: Innovation, response to crisis

Competence approach	NQF & EQF	Identify skills needs
Recognition/ validation	Flexibility & progression	Advice & guidance

The process: Collaboration, not regulation

Brings together 30+ diverse countries.

1. Approach centres on lifelong learning
2. Emphasis on quality assurance
3. Sectoral as well as national/local dimension
4. Peer learning is growing
5. A distinctive regional approach is developing
6. Economic and social goals combine
7. The VET research/evidence base has grown

So:

Are the themes lively and current in your setting?

Can the processes support ‘policy learning’?