Two Distinct Delivery Methodologies for Teaching & Learning in the FE Sector!

Paul Eeles

Director of Sector Reforms & 14-19

association of learning providers

Who is ALP

Subscription organisation representing the collective interests of mainly independent learning providers but growing numbers of others from FE colleges to funding bodies and government

Elected board of directors from membership

Over 497 member organisations – mainly from LSC, DWP and UFI contractors
Strength comes from active participation of members in representing collective voice

Our members deliver Approximately 70% of the LSC funded Apprenticeship, e2e and Train to Gain provision.

High level engagement on behalf of members to government, and their agencies

Increased activity with opposition parties, influencing their thinking ahead of a general election

Members views sought through wide range of Special Interest Groups, which feed into ALP policy and lobbying

alp association of learning providers

Our goal is to influence the education, skills and employment agenda to secure: An integrated employment and skills strategy meeting employer and individual needs

1. A 14-19 learning curriculum giving equal weight to the vocational and academic

2. Opportunities for lifelong learning and sustainable employment for all

3. A government-supported market open to all providers offering high-quality learning

Recognise and value equally all Teaching & Learning delivery

- Cut out the silo mentality to developing qualifications for the sector
- Single overarching framework for the delivery staff of the sector
- Achieving QTLS should not be dependant on just teaching in the class room but a range of skills
- Develop a truly flexible & appropriately workforce for the FE Sector

A New Opportunity?

"I am a believer in rigour and excellence in vocational qualifications just as much as in academic ones. No agnosticism here".

David Willetts 20th May 2010

Summary

- Need a clear understanding that teaching & learning where ever it is delivered is valued
- LLUK need to develop an overarching framework for Teaching & Learning ad ditch the silo mentality!
- Clear message to government that all forms of delivery need to be recognised and valued