World Reputation Rankings: Results 2013

"A stellar reputation of the kind enjoyed by Harvard or Oxford, which sustains those institutions at the centre of the social fabric, like the Church in medieval times, places them in a special zone beyond ordinary competition".

Simon Marginson, professor of higher education, University of Melbourne

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

World Reputation Rankings: Results 2013

"The top six universities are like the most beautiful cities in the world, reputable even if they have failing sewers, arrogant mayors and dodgy no-go areas".

Louise Simpson, director, World 100

“Reputation is created by a number of accumulating factors: the weight of activity in hundreds of different institutional sites, relations and transactions; conscious promotional campaigns, major events that result in news reporting, memories of past activities; and word of mouth effects.”

Simon Marginson, Melbourne University
